Event Summary

Unitil Energy Systems d/b/a Unitil (the Company) experienced a significant wet snow event that began the afternoon of November 26th and ended the morning of November 27th 2014, Thanksgiving Day. Unitil began tracking the event over the weekend of November 22nd. The System Incident Commander held the first, internal coordination call with all ICS section chiefs on the morning of the November 25th. Unitil continued with subsequent, internal calls twice daily throughout the event to ensure the effective coordination of resources.

Initially, the System Emergency Operations Center (EOC) was not scheduled to open; however, due to an ever changing forecast, it became evident that the snow amounts and liquid equivalent ratio were escalating with each additional forecast. As a result, Unitil opened the System EOC on the afternoon of November 26th. Resource acquisition (both internal and external) was a challenge due to the Thanksgiving Holiday and escalating nature of the event.

Unitil made a commitment to its local contractors on Tuesday, November 25th and subsequently brought in additional, external resources to pre-stage on the morning of Wednesday, November 26th. Preliminary pre-stage resources included 12 internal line, 23 contractor line, and 25 tree crews, as well as 16 wires down/damage assessors. Later on Wednesday with increased snow accumulations again being forecasted, Unitil sought to retain additional resources. By the evening of the Friday, November 28th, this retention resulted in over 127 line/tree/service crews and wires down/damage assessors working in New Hampshire.

Additionally, Unitil participated in three, North Atlantic Mutual Assistance Group (NAMAG) calls beginning on November 26th with the last occurring the evening of the November 27th. As a result of requests made on those calls, Unitil acquired 22 contractor line full time equivalents (FTEs – 11 crews) that arrived during the evening of November 27th and worked an overnight shift in the Capital region.

The damage that Unitil experienced was primarily broken and/or downed wires as a result of wet snow breaking trees and limbs. One of the challenges the Company faced was that the heavy wet snow caused the limbs to fail at different rates, causing multiple outages in the same area and involving the same customers. Additionally, saplings bent from the weight of the snow also caused problems as the temperatures rose and the snow offloaded, causing the saplings to spring back into the primary conductors. This can be seen in the restoration curve where Unitil's peak customer outage count was approximately 34,500; however, service was restored to over 71,000 customers. Clearly, many customers experienced multiple outages.

Upon completion of its restoration, Unitil assisted neighboring utilities by releasing 45 line crews, once its restoration effort was complete on Saturday, November 29th. The Company sent 10 line crews to Northeast Utilities and 35 line crews to the New Hampshire Electric Co-Operative.

Weather Overview

On the morning of Wednesday, November 26th an area of low pressure developed bringing abundant moisture northward as it tracked up the eastern seaboard. The first snow started falling over southern portions of Unitil's service territory late Wednesday morning with the heaviest snow falling Wednesday afternoon and evening before becoming lighter overnight and eventually stopping Thursday morning.

Unitil received the following weather report the morning of Wednesday, November 26th:

UNITIL SERVICE AREA 48 HOUR OUTLOOK:

CAPITAL: A mixture of rain/snow will begin between 7am-8am this morning. This mixture is expected to turn to all snow after 12pm. Snow will be likely through the afternoon and into the evening with periods of heavy snow possible. Heaviest expected to fall from 1pm-11pm. Snow will diminish gradually after midnight, becoming insignificant flurries by 6am Thursday. Flurries could extend into the early afternoon hours before diminishing by the evening. Total snowfall amounts from this system are expected to be between 8-11". Gusty winds will also be possible today with occasional gusts 30-35 mph possible between 4pm today and 4am Thursday. Confidence: Confidence is high that wet snow will occur today. Chance for EEI-4 level snow is 80%. Chance for EEI-3 level snow is 60%. Chance for EEI 2 snow is 10%. Chances are high that no hazards occur Thursday.

SEACOAST: Rain showers will begin between 9am-11am this morning. Rain is expected to turn to a rain/snow mix after 2-3pm and all snow after 5-6pm. Snow will be likely through the evening with periods of heavy snow possible. Heaviest expected to fall from 1pm-11pm. Snow will diminish gradually after 1am, becoming insignificant flurries by 7am Thursday. Flurries could extend into the early afternoon hours before diminishing by the evening. Snowfall amounts of 4-7" are expected from this system along and east of I-95, with 7-9" further inland. Gusty winds will also possible today with frequent gusts 30-35 mph possible between 2pm today and 6am Thursday. Peak gusts will run up to 40 mph.

Confidence: Confidence is high that wet snow will occur today. Chance for EEI-4 level snow is 70%. Chance for EEI-3 level snow is 40%. Chances are high that no hazards occur Thursday.

Restoration Summary

Figure 3 below represents the Company's restoration progress in New Hampshire throughout the event. The peak number of outages occurred at approximately 9:00 pm on November 26th with 34,575 customer interruptions or 46% of the New Hampshire customer base. As mentioned previously, many customers saw multiple interruptions. Therefore and as a cumulative total, the Company restored approximately 71,315 customers in New Hampshire.

An overall restoration progress summary is attached to this report (Attachment 1), as well as a town by town restoration summary (Attachment 2).

Resource Availability

As requested by the NHPUC, the Company reviewed its resource availability reports and made corrections where necessary to its previously submitted reports Figure 4 below depicts an overall summary of the crew reports which are also attached to this report (Attachment 3). Please note that the Company redeployed many of its contractor line crews to support neighboring utilities at the end of its restoration.

Damage Summary

Down Wires

This event resulted in over 355 down wires reported by the municipals; 301 were in the Capital region alone. Unitil tracked each reported instance in a SharePoint data base (See Attachment 4 – Sample Wire Down Database). Though difficult to be assured all wires are captured, we are confident that all Priority 1 calls (life threatening in nature) were responded to in less than hour. Our goal, as always, is to ensure the public is safe and to free municipal first responders from the task of standing-by a down wire. As usual, many (we estimate 30-40%) of the wires were not electrical in nature.

Additionally, although service lines to the home are customer owned, this was the first event that the company reattached downed services for customers with over 15 services reattached by the Company.

Damage/Materials

The Company experienced over 944 trouble locations throughout the towns Unitil serves in New Hampshire. The majority of observed damage was in the form of downed wires caused by limbs and trees bending and burning in the phases. Additionally, there were many locations that experienced multiple outages. During this event the company replaced 46 crossarms, 9 poles, 14 transformers, 18,599 ft. of primary conductor and 1,708 ft. of secondary conductor. Overall, the company was required to visit an estimated 1300 locations that required some action on the Company's part. The company estimates that it had to respond to over 500 down wire locations and 800 trouble locations requiring electrical repairs.

The units of plant material issued during the storm are captured in Attachment 5 – Materials Issued to the Storm.

Estimated Cost

The Company's Administration/Finance Section Chief began tracking the estimated cost of this event from the onset. The primary driver is the number of outside restoration resources acquired and related logistics. Because of the nature of the storm the damage was primarily downed wires that required repair vs. wholesale replacement of sections, though some did occur. The very preliminary estimate below reflects both the capital and expense associated with this event.

Preliminary Storm Costs
Cost Category	UES Total (Estimated)
Contractor & Related Services	$1,979,568
Incremental Payroll & Expenses	$56,000
Materials & Supplies	$35,480
Total Expenditures	$2,071,048
Amount Capitalized to Construction	$80,903
Total Deferred to Storm Reserve	$1,990,145

A Includes "business as usual" crews, crews physically present, crews signed into work, and crews off road and on road.

Example: if Monday through Friday there are 5 line crews and 4 contractor tree crews, the 'Prior to Event' column will contain 5 line crews and 4 contractor tree crews, no matter what day the event occurs. Typically these numbers will be consistent from event to event unless crews have been dispatched elsewhere or eliminated. During the event, crews will include the "prior to event" crews and additional crews that have arrived "boot on the ground". Numbers should be all inclusive and should not reflect rest time or crews that have yet to arrive.

B Does not include line crews who are doing both, includes those who are exclusively doing pole setting, includes contractor, in-house crews, mutual aid crews, and does not include Telecom crews.

C Does not include line crews who are also doing assessment.
