Dear Sirs,

I am writing to voice my support for the Net Energy Metering settlement, Docket 22-060, before the Public Utility Commission. This is vital for encouraging the expansion of solar and other alternative energy generation. This investment is good for individuals, for the environment, for the state and for the country as a whole. Net Energy Metering is the major incentive for homeowners considering investing in solar panels on their property. Without it, the only alternative is going off-grid with batteries, making the cost beyond the reach of most of us. Here at our home, NEM allowed us to put up 28 solar panels, thus meeting most of our electric generation needs and eliminating the burning of many gallons of fuel to generate that power.

Sincerely,

David and Dorothy Ledner
