These Community Power Aggregations (CPAs) will be launched primarily on an opt-out alternative default service provider basis.

Merrimack County Community Power offers opt-in service to all customers within the county. Merrimack County Community Power will launch service as the default electricity supplier on an opt-out basis for customers in the City of Franklin and the Towns of Bow, Northfield, and Wilmot in accordance with votes of the governing bodies of these municipalities.

Some groups of customers in the CPAs may be offered service only on an opt-in basis, particularly those that cannot be properly served by CPAs until certain data sharing and Puc 2200 rule compliance issues are resolved, including net energy metered customers.
